Q8 - EXAMS: Please suggest other ways that may curb cheating on exams

EXAMS: Please suggest other ways that may curb cheating on exams

Use more openbook tests but make it very challenging

Make an example of someone.

I suggest giving less exams and focusing on better ways to evaluate a students progress in a course.

Reading the RMP and firing any professors there have been multiple complaints about. Some professors cannot teach and its up for students to teach themselves.

Open questions work great in online classes

More written questions than multiple choice

no other way

Create project base individual exam with a set time to complete it. And stop giving questions and answers exams.

a long test with a short timer is extremely helpful even with cheating the grade reflects what the student knows because you cannot search fast enough

EXAMS: Please suggest other ways that may curb cheating on exams

The automated system through the computer camera is an extreme. I suffer from bad anxiety, that would just make it completely worse

I don't know any other

NA

Not that I have any other way I just wanted to say that monitoring students is destroying the student privacy and also this survey shows that there is a lack of trust in your students.

no others

less calculator work, more handwritten work

Use "turn it in"

Facial recognition software to open an exam because in my opinion someone else is doing their exams.

Oh I don't know. Maybe the students cheat because when we moved online, the professors just stopped teaching and we didn't learn jackshit?

Speak to students about ethics and academic integrity

n/a

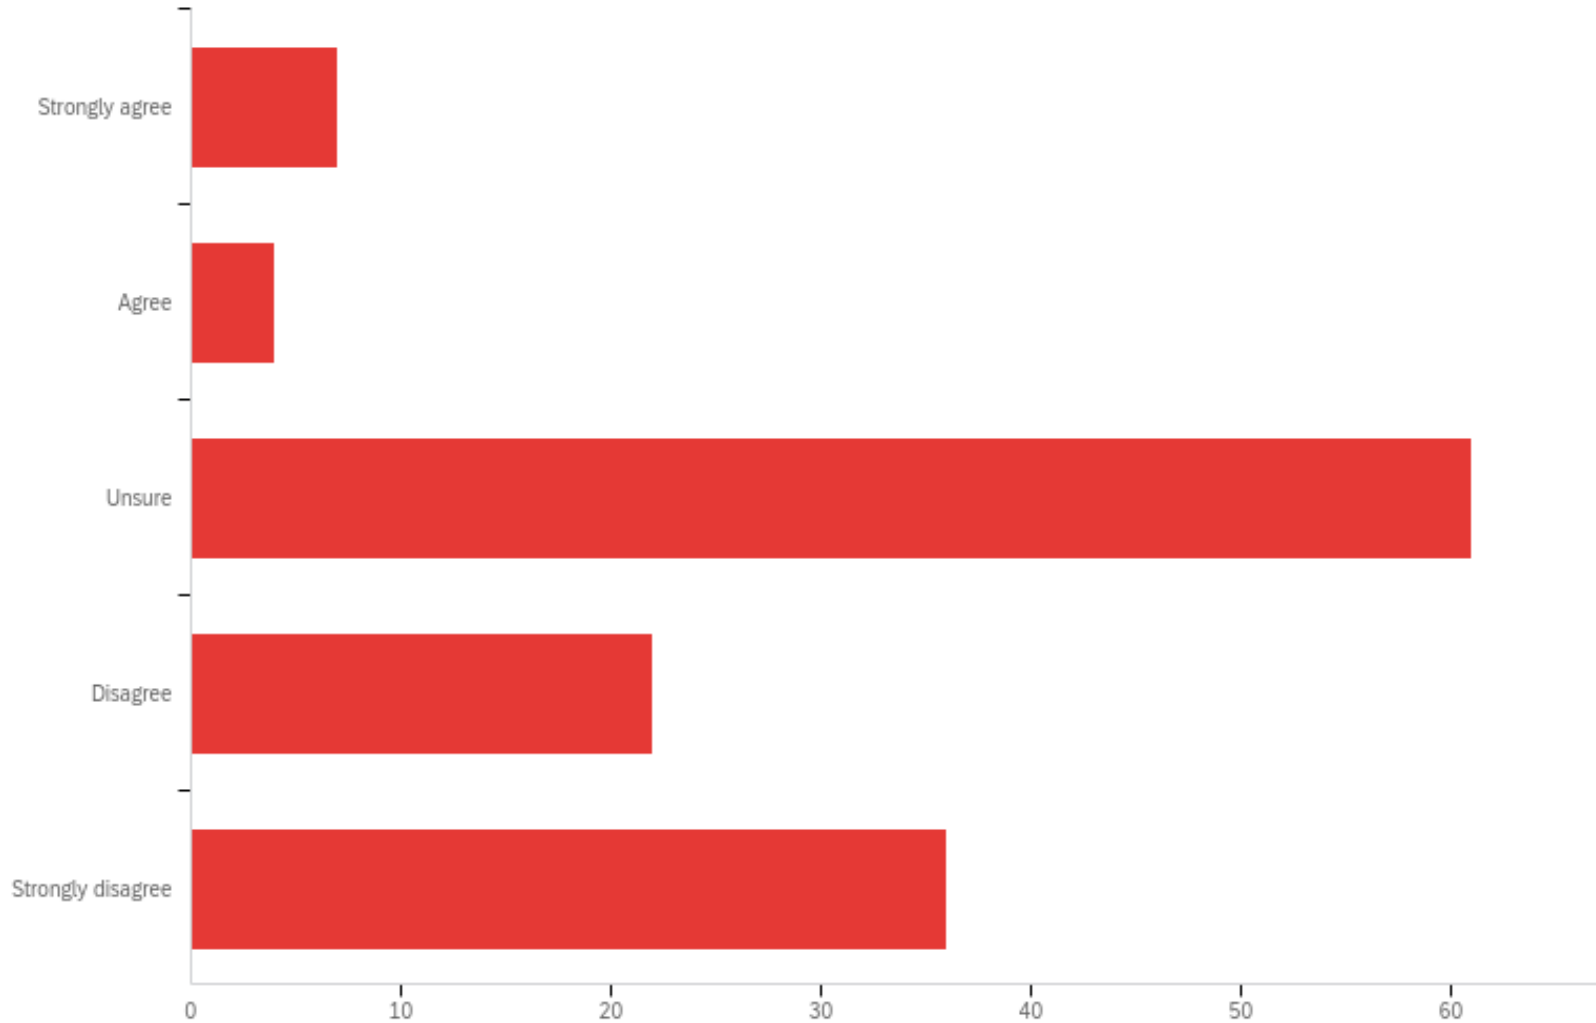

If you have the exam with camera on and lockdown a student's browser, it will make it difficult to contact others using other means such as a laptop, phone, or even taking out notes. Cheat sheets may be used but that's what happens when there's an online exam. Although it's the best you can do, it's better than having students google answers on iPads and phones if their browser is locked down

Attending "in person" classes, I had experienced a great competition, hard work and desire for knowledge among Baruch students, which was admirable and encouraging. I never believed in online classes, and have heard about cheating.

Have test questions randomly generated 10 minutes before exam and upload worksheet

Less questions, students should have to write written explanations for each question those explanations should be graded, cheating can be stopped I h
